RECONCILIATION

Orange Shirt Day National Day for Truth and Reconciliation

September 30, 2023

September 30th is the National Day for Truth and Reconciliation. In previous years, this date has been recognized as Orange Shirt Day: Every Child Matters, a day to witness and honour the healing journey of residential school survivors and their families. Approximately 150,000 Métis, Inuit and First Nations children attended Canadian residential schools between the 1860s and the 1990s, 6,000 are estimated to have died amid abuse and neglect (Canada's Truth and Reconciliation Commission).

Orange shirts commemorate the story of Phyllis Webstad, a residential school survivor who was stripped of her shiny new orange shirt when she attended residential school as a six-year-old child. In Phyllis' words, "The color orange has always reminded me of that and how my feelings didn't matter, how no one cared and how I felt like I was worth nothing."

The federal government formalized September 30th as a national day to address the harm caused to Indigenous peoples by the residential school system and to advance reconciliation. September 30th is not seen as a day for celebration but rather one for reflection.

The Municipality of Kincardine is committed to meaningful discussion about the legacy of the residential school system, to affirm that #EveryChildMatters matter, and to further commit to reconciliation.
